Help Feed Pets in Need!

- * 80,000 families in the Denver Metro area struggle to feed their pets.
- * Not all hungry animals are strays!
- * Committed, loving families struggle to pay for pet food.

It's hard to imagine facing the pain of losing your best friend because of money. Unfortunately, it is a reality for more than 80,000 families who own pets in the Denver Metro area. When we think of hungry animals, we imagine stray dogs and cats wandering city streets alone, when in fact, many of the pets that are in need of food, come from loving, committed homes. Not having enough money to buy dog and cat food, litter and supplies is forcing families to make the unfortunate decision of giving up the pet they love. The situation is overwhelming. In Denver alone, it would take 38 million pounds of food to feed every hungry animal.

Help us raise money and pounds of food to help these families overcome their struggles; keep their families intact ... furry companions and all.

All money raised will be used to support the Food Drive and purchase food. We'll have a live event September 12th and donation sites across the city so save the date and look out for updates!

Bring your cans, cash and bags of food to the South High School parking lot. If you're busy that day, don't worry! We'll have drop off sites around the metro area prior to Sept 12. Check our Facebook cause for details!
